OUR GALLANT LADS.

After nine months of war in Europe people on this side of the water were beginning to regard the whole affair as a matter of course and to read the reports of the progress of the war in much the same way. This feeling was accentuated because of the similarity of reports coming through from time to time. Today, however, it is quite different. The report that our own Canadian boys had been in the thick of the fight and had met with severe losses brings home to us closer than ever the seriousness of the present struggle, and makes us feel that so far as we are concerned at least, the war is just starting.

In reviewing the casualty list almost everybody sees the name of some young man he knew either in school days or a business way later in life. Terrible as the slaughter has been there is at least a great degree of pride in knowing that our gallant lads were not found wanting when put to the test, but rather that they acted like veterans and saved the situation for the empire at a very critical moment.

The recapture of the lost guns by the Canadians in front of Ypres is a deathless chapter in the history of the Maple Leaf. It was one of the finest exhibitions of grit and devotion of the whole war. The Canadians braved a perfect hell of fire and death to recover their own guns and those of the French, and they did it gloriously. The lesson will not be lost on either side of the fighting line.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

We hear and read a great deal these days from the pulpit, the press and the pew about the graft in politics. It is perfectly right, and only what is expected from any one of those agencies to condemn corruption, but it is also expected of them that they commend a virtue as well as condemn a fault.

That there has been some graft exposed in connection with war purchases no one can deny, but can the fact that there has been graft be blamed on politics any more than it can be blamed on the pulpit, the press or the pew. The greater part of the corruption has been committed by men who fill the pews in our churches and read our papers. If, therefore, their moral training has been neglected, who is to blame for that?

In regard to purity let us see how the pulpit and the press compares with the political party in Canada. Ever since confederation political leaders have found it necessary to replace their supporters for breaches of trust or lack of confidence, and even cabinet ministers have been requested by their leader to retire because charges had been made against the administration of their department. During his administration Sir Wilfrid Laurier found it necessary to resort to this course, and only the other day Sir Robert Borden read two members of parliament out of the party for the part they had played in the purchase of war materials. What have the church and the press done and what will they do with these men? Will they refuse to take their graft gotten money or strike their names off the subscription list like the political leaders did? We wonder.

We blush to think of it, yet we venture the opinion that the percentage of grafters and hypocrites is much larger in other organizations and institutions than it is in politics. We are not conceding graft. It certainly is wrong and the grafters should be punished and punished severely, but "people living in glass houses should not throw stones."

CLEAN-UP DAY.

Friday, May 7th, is to be observed in towns as "Clean-up day." The mayor and council have placed so much importance of the day that it has been proclaimed a public holiday. It is hoped that city citizens will take this matter seriously and put forth a special effort to get their property thoroughly cleaned up on that day. It is further hoped all places in town will close up tight on that day so that they themselves and their clerks will be able to take advantage of the opportunity.

If the "clean-up" habit is taken advantage of next Friday the people will be ahead of the game as the council has made arrangements to have all refuse removed by the municipal department free of charge. All refuse will, we understand, be taken away by the town teams next Friday, and if it cannot all be attended to that day it will be done the next day. Take an interest in your surroundings and get your place cleaned up. It will improve the appearance of your town. Get the habit and get into the game.

MIXED FARMING

Farmers have been getting much advice lately from bankers, railroad men and government departments of agriculture, telling them what they should do to make farming profitable. Mixed farming of course is the solution, they say. This is no news. Farmers have known this for years. The great solution is how to get a start in mixed farming, yet none of our advisers have yet solved this part of the problem so far as we have seen.

In a comparatively new farming country like we have around here, the average homesteader finds after he has put up his necessary buildings and fences, purchased his machinery and oxen or horses, and laid in a grub and grub, he has very little left to buy breeding stock.

What is needed, right now more than anything else is that our advisers figure out some scheme whereby homesteaders can start in at once on the mixed farming game.

The Dominion government has spent in the neighborhood of $12,000,000 for relief to farmers in the district where crops were a failure. This would not have been necessary in a mixed farming district. For this money put out by the government they took a lien on the homesteads. If next year they would spend a similar amount in purchasing stock for distribution among homesteaders who need them, take a lien on the stock and make arrangements for easy payments, this would give homesteaders a start and it would only be a matter of a few years till they would be set up in business.

Another matter which might be worked out to advantage by some of the advisers or by the farmers' unions is that of some kind of insurance against crop failures. It might be worked something along the lines of hail insurance. This would relieve the government of coming to the rescue in dry seasons and would enable them to use this money for the development of the live stock industry instead.

While the men of Canada are fighting on the battle field or training for the battles yet to be fought, and while the women of Canada are working with a will in almost every town and village of the Dominion for the relief of those who suffer and the comfort of those who bear the brunt of this colossal conflict, the children are likewise doing their share for the cause of humanity and right. To the children of Canada much credit is due and in the years to come they will be able to look back to the days when they did something in the great struggle of the nations.

Today the editor of this paper had occasion to use one of the motors running between here and Medicine Hat, and called up the proprietor asking him to call at that domicile for a passenger. "Oh, yes," said the motor driver, "you live right in front of the pound, don't you? Nice address that for a man living in the heart of the town, isn't it."

The long casualty lists that the telegraph brings in daily are the best evidence of the deadly nature of the struggle now going on in Flanders. Canada is nobly doing her part of the empire's work, and Canada is taking her share of the blows. She will take them without flinching, well knowing that for every one which is received three are dealt.

If the sanitary committee is desirous of locating a suitable place for the pound, we would suggest the market property for their consideration. When the market is going it will have to be cleaned up occasionally, then both can be done at once. Besides this would be a convenient place, as farmers coming to market could look over the impounded stock and see if any of theirs are amongst them. Again market day would be a fine time to hold sales of impounded stock and they would be right there on the ground.

CRITICAL STAGE OF WAR

HAS NOW BEEN REACHED. What some military critics are inclined to pronounce the "greatest battle of the war" is now under way on the Ypres canal. Official reports are both meagre and contradictory, but it is generally believed in London that the Germans are making desperate efforts to break through to the French channel ports.

All England has been led to believe by its newspapers to believe that the war has been reached. Reports from Flanders during the last few

HOW THE WOMEN ARE GIVING HELP

A Matter of Initiative—Sustain the Pay Roll by Encouraging "Made-in-Canada" Goods

What are the women of Canada doing about the "Made-in-Canada" movement? As usual, more than meets the eye. There never was a more fervent woman worker in it anywhere. When the women of Canada undertake to pay their attention on the campaign, that, mean-while, the success of that campaign is certain. In this case that is peculiar quality of women workers as initiators, counts for more than all the logic of well-constructed arguments. Women are natural economists—as well as instinctive spenders. When they endorse a policy of buying goods made by Canadians for the sake of Canadian homes they do so as a matter of state instinct. You don't have to reason to a woman that it's her duty to support her own cause before she'll cheerfully do it. She takes it for granted.

All this movement needed to carry it with flying colors to its winning end of national prosperity was the initiative backing of the intelligent womanhood of Canada. To them it is as obvious as the sunrise that disaster, or the years that conquer an enemy. There isn't an intelligent woman in Canada who doesn't stand behind this campaign to boost Canadian prosperity. Any mere man who feels doubtful or lukewarm about it has better introduce himself to a girl or wife. One plan of her initiative perception will be a match for all his lame and limping arguments to the contrary. This is no case that divides families. Buying "Made-in-Canada" goods at a time like this is the one case that unites both families and communities.

It isn't a matter of buying silks and bric-a-brac... What keeps the Canadian factory going nowadays is the man's part of what you buy every day, and the small items that slip into a large total than the big purchase.

CANADIAN DOLLARS NEEDED AT HOME

Everybody Can Help—Where the Wholesale Comes In—The General Welfare of Canada

Keeping the Canadian dollar at home is very much a matter of the wholesale dealer who buys in carload lots.

No matter what retailers and individual consumers may decide to do as a national self-interest campaign, the jobber is the man who really controls the situation. The wholesale dealer has a wide-angle vision. He has customers far and wide; not one province, but all of them. His parish is often as large as that of the manufacturer. His business has a national scope. To the wholesaler the general welfare of Canada is of more direct importance than it is to the retailer of the individual.

Naturally this country looks to the wholesaler to help along the "Made-in-Canada" movement, because it is going to be in his best interests to offer the retailer the goods his customers are demanding, and in his position of buying in carload lots he can do a great deal to help or hinder people in carrying out the "Made-in-Canada" sentiment.

The wholesaler who buys his goods from a foreign country is letting the reservoir leak without pumping into it. Every carload of goods bought outside of Canada means the value of a carload taken away from the purchasing power of the Canadian people, which depends directly on the goods that Canada exports.

We all realize the insanity of killing the goose that lays the golden egg. The golden egg in this case is the ability of the Canadian people to buy goods, and the ability of the Canadian manufacturer to supply them, as well as not better, as cheaply if not more cheaply than any other nation now competing for business.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE MAN WHO DRAWS HIS PAY IN ONE TOWN AND SPENDS IT IN ANOTHER?

days have been read with breathless interest, which was exaggerated by the fact that the report was by Sir John Ross, the report on the Canadian exploit in retaking the last ground north of Ypres.

TOILING ON

We are forgetting that our stay on earth is brief, and we waste the time in fretting, hunting for all kinds of grief, making more about the weather, magnifying every ill, as we toil along together to the beyond in the hill. All our little griefs and worries will fade as in a day; every dark affliction hurries, anxious to be on its way, but we make it so, and we howl about the humble till we overlook the rose. We ignore the scented herb, looking for the thistle clump, as we toil along together to the beyond in the hill. There's so much that's good and bright! There's so much to annoy us, as if our hearts were only right! Why hasten forth, from lungs of leather, protests fierce, when all is well, as we toil along together to the beyond in the hill.

General News Notes From Various Points

The epidemic is growing in Rome that Austria, and Italy are drifting inevitably toward war.

In a running fight with burglar Police Constable B. D. Newell at Vancouver, was shot and then clinked into insensibility.

The greatest western battle of the war is now progressing around Ypres, Canada, actively engaged in the front lines, have again won for themselves undying glory by their readiness, resources and quickness. Sir John French warmly praising them.

Mr. Marconi says that all the Italian warships are now supplied with wireless telephone equipment that enables them to communicate for a distance of a hundred miles.

Christophe Sognothos, foreign minister of Greece, in Paris, is quoted by the information at Ypres, that Greece was ready to unite with the allies in the operations at the Dardanelles, if invited to do so.

American steamer Wilhelmina, whose cargo of food supplies has been bought by the British government, has reached Cardiff from Falmouth. She will now discharge her cargo, which was originally consigned to Hamburg.

Supplementary reports furnish fuller particulars of the way the Germans succeeded in forcing the French line back during Thursday evening to the north of Ypres, between the Yser Canal and the Poel Capelle road. Thick yellow mists had driven by northerly winds produced an effect of complete apathy among the troops, which was felt even in the second line positions.

Many are starving to death, others are committing suicide to escape the terrors of hunger, and thousands are on the verge of starvation in the province of Szechuan, China, because of famine, according to mail advices to the state department of the United States received from Captain Fisher, American consul at Chung King.

The steamship Maude, from Gairstoun for Malmo, Sweden, with a cargo of cotton, is being detained at Kirkwall, Orkney Island, pending the purchase of her cargo by the British government under the cotton agreement.

The Germans carefully prepared the advance made last week, concentrating large forces in Belgium, even withdrawing troops from Austria and accumulating very heavy artillery. Their original plans were upset by the British unexpected attack upon Hill 20, which foiled the strong advance.

It is unofficially reported that Sir J. French says the casualties in the terrific conflict, in which the Canadians took part near Langemarck, are the heaviest in any engagement since the beginning of the war.

Four Canadian 4.7 inch guns fell into the hands of the enemy on Friday, but some hours later the Canadians made it most brilliant and successful advance, recapturing these guns and taking a considerable number of German prisoners, including a colonel. The Canadians had their casualties, but their gallantry had determination undoubtedly saved the situation.

A British correspondent accredited officially to the Dardanelles expedition, admits that the problem of forcing the straits is a tremendous one. His observations have led him to the belief that a strong army for operations on the Gallipoli peninsula will be necessary.

John Bunney, whose antics as a moving picture comedian have made millions laugh, died at his home in Brooklyn. He had been ill for about three weeks of a complication of diseases.

The admiralty and the war office declared that a general attack on the Dardanelles had begun. An army, it was said, has been disturbed successfully.

The steamer Nordan, with forty American delegates to the Hague peace convention among its passengers, is anchored in the Dardanelles, unable to obtain permission to proceed up the channel to Rotterdam.

Peppino Garibaldi, grandson of the famous Italian patriot, who recently has talked with the Italian king and premier, is said to have received from them the impression that Italy would enter the war with the allies.

The Alberta amateur wrestling and boxing championships, which will be held in Edmonton on Friday and Saturday of this week, promise to set a new record for the province. The flood of entries has exceeded the most optimistic expectations of the A. A. U. governors, and it looks as if over fifty boxers and wrestlers from all parts of Alberta will converge for the provincial titles and the medals that accompany same.

Lieut. Captain Thibault, commander of the German commerce raider Kron Prinz Wilhelm, informed Collector of Customs Hamilton at Newport News, Va., that he would return his ship for the war in American waters.

Fires which the police believe were incendiary, were started yesterday on Cambie and Granville street bridges in Vancouver. The damage done is upwards of $300,000. The police think it likely that the fires were started by German sympathizers who took advantage of the high wind storm.

British Prisoners In Germany

From time immemorial prisoners of war have evaded pity and sympathy, and agony and humiliation, of the sympathetic prisoners must be indescribably acute and appalling. But from the state of suffering there can be no redress, it being part of the fortunes of war but too lack of comfort and food stands in a different category. This want will grow in volume and intensity as the days go by.

As a result of an official organization having been created recently to carry parcels to the British prisoners in Germany, insuring proper transmission through a neutral carrier, the "Khaki" magazine of Imperial House, Kingsway, London, has started a fund to supply food and comforts for those who have no relatives or friends to look after them, as it is known that these poor fellows are not getting a proper supply of food.

An appeal is made to you for two dollars only, as there are so many demands made upon you in other directions. This money will go for the direct benefit of the prisoners, as there is no cost of transmission and no waste of any description, information having been established showing the kind of food and clothing, etc., which can be sent without confiscation by the German government.

This appeal should get a large response as there is no other fund which deals with this particular condition. The "Khaki" Magazine and Cable News Sheet was created primarily as a gift for the Overseas Soldiers, bringing them late news from their homes. It is now supplying, free of charge, in addition to the soldiers at the front and in training, the various hospitals in England and France, as well as the Grand Old Fleet. It is a purely patriotic endeavor and in no way commercial.

When the "Khaki" Magazine was founded, amongst the many who gave their support and expressions of goodwill for the work it had undertaken, were:

The Duke of Wellington, K.G.
The Duke of Manchester.
The First Lord of the Admiralty.
The Countess of Zealand.
Lady Leves.
Mrs. Leopold de Rothschild.
Lieut. General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, K.C.V.O.
The Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain, P.C.M.
Lord Desborough.
The Earl of Essex.
Viscount Bryce.
Lord Willoughby de Broke.
The Earl of Ronaldshay.
Viscount Milner.
Earl of Kintore.
Sir Gilbert Parker, M.P.
Sir William Bull, M.P.
Mr. Evelyn Cecil, M.P.
The Right Hon. Sir Charles Johnston, Lord Mayor of London.
The Right Hon. J. E. H. Mayne, Lord Mayor of Liverpool.
The Right Hon. W. H. Bowater, Lord Mayor of Birmingham.
The Right Hon. James Macartney, Lord Provost of Aberdeen.
The Right Hon. Crawford McCullagh, Lord Mayor of Belfast.

All subscriptions will be published in this paper, and you are requested to send yours to any office of the Royal Bank of Canada, and mark it "Khaki Prisoners' Fund." The subscriptions will also be duly acknowledged in the Magazine and various newspapers in England from time to time.

MORE CANADIANS ARE NOW LANDING IN FRANCE
A large fleet of reinforcements for the Canadian expeditionary force has been safely landed in France. The reinforcements were probably drawn from the base established at Shorncliffe when between 2500 and 4000 men arrived there nearly two months ago from Canada.

Must Use War Stamps for Sending Duncans

It has been brought to the attention of the post office department that some business firms desiring to avoid paying the war tax which became effective on the 1st of April, were making arrangements for the delivery of accounts, bills, circulars, etc., through messengers other than the post office, contrary to the postal act, and the post office department intends to insist that the law shall be rigidly lived up to, and will be rigidly enforced.

All letters conveyed, collected, sent or delivered in contravention of the post office act will be seized and necessary steps immediately taken for the prosecution of the offenders in all cases where the law has been contravened.

Headed for the Atlantic coast of Canada is a German squadron bent on bombarding cities and fortifications there, according to a letter received yesterday by Capt. CANADIAN LOSS WAS DUE TO POISON

The British war office in a statement supporting its previous charges that the Germans in their fighting are using noxious gases, says: "Medical evidence shows that Canadian soldiers have lost their lives in the recent fighting, not from wounds, but from poisoning by gas employed by the enemy."

Station Agent Morrell is having some improvements made in the appearance of the grounds around the C.P.R. station. Besides getting things in shape for flower gardens he has also had a number of trees planted around the property.

In our last issue we said the Liberty Oil well was drilled down 200 feet. This was a typographical error. It should have been 100 feet. During the past week the drillers have made fairly good progress and are now down about 275 feet. They experienced some difficulties getting through some gravel for a few feet but are now getting along nicely.

Messrs. McLachlan & McLean are just putting the finishing touches on a very fine fence around R. O. Whistley's property on Fifth street. When completed this fence will add greatly to the appearance of the property but also to the street.

Last Saturday while Messrs. R. Oswald and W. Brawley were on a fishing expedition along the river bank they ran across a bull snake and were successful in putting out its light. The snake measured five feet four inches from tip to tip. It is one of the largest ever killed in this district and the skin will make a fine belt for some slim young lady.

Jas. Merry, who has been manager of the Atlas Lumber Co. here ever since the town started, left last night for Swift Current, to which point he has been transferred. He will take over the management of the yard at that point. Since coming to Redliff Mr. Merry has taken a keen interest in all movements in the interest of town, and there is no doubt he will be greatly missed, especially by the young ladies are concerned. It is hoped to see all his friends that Mr. Merry's removal will only be temporary. Mr. J. R. Wilks, of Vanguard, Sask., takes Mr. Merry's place here.

Have you tried our bank drinks yet? If you once taste them you will have nothing else, Hicks Ice Cream parlor.

The local Oddfellows' lodge celebrated their 36th anniversary by holding a whist drive and dance in their large room last Monday evening. There was a good turn out of members and their friends, and a most enjoyable evening was spent in cards and tripping the light fantastic. The Redliff orchestra furnished their usual splendid music, and as the floor was in excellent shape nothing was left to be desired.

We carry a full line of fresh fruit from our ice cream parlor. Mrs. T. A. Hicks.
